Two Words

Renowned photographer Ansel Adams once said 'There are always two people in every picture: the photographer and the viewer.' For this book, I would add a third person : the subject.

This book is dedicated to the hundreds of people who collaborated with me, unknowingly for the most part !

Candid photography has always been more than pointing my camera at someone without their knowledge. I have always taken delight in spontaneous and unplanned juxtapositions, empathy being at the heart of my observations of the human condition.

In a world constantly in motion, I have tried to be observant of the magic to be found in the unposed and the unscripted. There are always the faces and the silhouettes that populate the memories of travel. Whether I'm venturing abroad or walking the streets of my celebrated hometowns, it has taken me half a lifetime to become fearless in the knowledge that the best camera is always the one on me, and the best slice of life the one right before me.

The stories behind the images in this 'family album' reveal themselves with just minimal captions, I am letting each picture speak a thousand words. Look for the stories, or make up your own, if you enjoy the embrace of familiar strangers or marvel at fellow humans at play - we'll share a collective experience !

This book is a maiden venture - uncurated and unedited for themes or narratives or even formal formats. Overlook the oversights if you will !
